

British Coal Strike Has Been Settled and 1,200,000 Miners Resume Work

Official Announcement Follows Conference of Federation and Owners

ON SINCE LAST APRIL
Industrial Paralysis Incident to Mine Closure Will Be Lifted

By International News Service.
LONDON, June 28—The national coal strike which had been in effect since April 1 was settled. Official announcement to this effect was made following the second conference of the Federation of Miners and the colliery owners at the government board of trade office.

Premier Lloyd George announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that an agreement had been reached between the strikers and the colliery owners and that the men would return to work at once. The news was received with cheers and there was the utmost rejoicing throughout the whole country.

This conference had been arranged by Premier Lloyd George and the government was represented.

Upwards of 1,200,000 men were involved in the national coal strike. It had precipitated the worst industrial crisis in the history of Great Britain.

Officials of the federation of miners made two attempts to bring about a general strike in sympathy with the miners but both failed.

It is estimated that the coal strike cost Great Britain in wages, loss of production and general business stagnation at least $2,250,000,000.

Industry has been paralyzed many weeks and train schedules curtailed to a minimum. There was less suffering than would have resulted if the strike had taken place in the winter time. The country has been going through an unprecedented hot wave when coal was needed only as industrial fuel.

Government officials were jubilant over the settlement of the coal strike following so closely upon the settlement of the textile wage dispute. They declared that the labor atmosphere will clear rapidly and that normal conditions may be expected within a few weeks.

Ferry Collides With Tanker In Heavy Fog

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, June 28—The ferry Bronx, carrying between 1500 and 2000 passengers collided with the Polarine, a tanker, in a heavy fog off St. George, Staten Island, early today. The ferry was badly damaged but there was no leak and she made her slip at St. George safely landing all her passengers.

There was a slight panic on the ferry, many of the passengers rushing for life belts. Officers and crew managed to restore order however. The collision occurred on the starboard side of the ferry and all the passengers rushed to portside, causing the vessel to list dangerously. Valiant work on the part of the crew got the passengers distributed equally on both sides of the ship and the danger of the vessel capsizing was averted.

Battleship Iowa Guided By Radio Waves Awaits Attack

BY DAVID M. CHURCH
Staff Correspondent I. N. S.

ON BOARD U. S. S. HENDERSON
OFF LYNN HAVEN ROADS, June 28—A new page was turned in naval history today when army and navy forces combined to locate and attack the radio controlled battleship Iowa, which is theoretically steaming towards the coast for an offensive.

For the first time in naval history a big battleship entirely controlled by radio and unmanned is being used as an enemy, in a war game and for the first time combined army and navy aircraft are serving as defenses to repel the "enemy" attack.

At the zero hour today, the Iowa, located at an unknown point within a zone between 50 and 100 miles off the coast between Cape Hatteras and Cape Henlopen, steamed shoreward at a maximum speed. Not a bluejacket was aboard the ship when she got under way, and no human hand controlled her from the bridge, but her course and speed were directed entirely by the eerie hand of electricity.

School Row Still Rends Morrisville

Mrs. Erwin States That She Referred to the Intellectually Unbathed

HER REMARKS CAUSTIC

Troubles of the Morrisville school authorities continue to be a chief topic of discussion in the borough just above here. Charges and counter charges are still being made, and, in a statement issued by Mrs. Jessica E. Erwin, of the Child Welfare Association, Mrs. Erwin says that in her allusion to the indifference of some of the teachers to the physical advantages of bathing, she really meant the "intellectually unbathed."

In her statement, Mrs. Erwin declares that several of the more important and vital matters discussed at that particular meeting of the Board were kept from the public's knowledge. These included, she says, the alleged threat of Commissioner Bond "to show up" School Principal Demmy, the retarding of the progress of normal children by keeping them in classes with defectives, the excessive use of corporal punishment, the necessity of a physical examination of teachers as well as children, the use of a waste paper basket by a male teacher as a cuspidor, the employment beyond the minimum wage of inexperienced teachers, the poor sanitary facilities in the Case School, the poor repair of the Chambers Street School, and the absence of a decent walk at the Capitol View School.

Mrs. Erwin also makes the caustic observation in her statement that the school tax is high and the benefits few, and she assures those whom she sees fit to criticize that their opinion of her does not concern her in the least. She contends that she regards it as her duty to fight for better things in the Morrisville schools and she proposes to keep on fighting until the improvements are obtained.

Deputies To Postpone Indefinitely Oil Decrease

By International News Service.
MEXICO CITY, June 28—The Chamber of Deputies in secret session has decided to postpone indefinitely the time when the new oil decrees shall go into effect, it was announced today.

It is believed that this delay is due to pressure from the United States and that it will have a good effect upon Mexico's international relations.

The decision was communicated to President Obregon who issued a brief statement saying that he understood why it had been made.

Comet Switches Route And Is Outward Bound

By International News Service.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 28—Several weeks of intimacy with this solar system have had such an effect on the Ponswinnecke comet that it has changed its itinerary and departed from its orbit, the Harvard University Observatory announced today.

The change in the comet's plans has been caused by planetary influences, and as a result the predicted meteoric showers are not now likely to fall, Son I. Bailey, acting director of the observatory, asserted.

The comet, he added is now outward bound through space.

Mothers Urged To Attend Hot Weather Health Talk

Those in charge of tomorrow's meeting at the Community House, Cedar and Dorrance streets, under the auspices of the Health Center wish it understood that babies as well as mothers, are welcome to attend. Small children are also welcome with their parents.

The talk being on the care of babies in hot weather, the presence of the little ones will afford better chance for illustration to the mothers of that care. Drs. William LeCompte and Nicola Rubertone, who will make the addresses, in English and Italian respectively, will be glad to have the mothers bring their little ones and will not mind at all if, during the course of the remarks of either doctor, a baby cries and a mother has to divert her attention from the speaker to the little one.

Small children will be welcome, but larger children, those who are able to play by themselves and care for themselves, might better be left at home or in the care of others. Sitting still in this hot weather and listening would probably not appeal to their lively natures.

Allies Halt Efforts

LONDON, June 28—The allies have ceased all efforts at mediation between Greece and Turkey and will make no effort to end the warfare in the near east it was learned in diplomatic quarters today. It was pointed out however that Greece will be held strictly accountable for developments in Turkey.

Railway Strike Looms Again as Shopmen Reject

Overwhelmingly, They Oppose Acceptance of Wage Reduction

AFFECTS OTHER UNIONS

Hope Seen in Leaders' Opposition And Low Strike Fund

By International News Service.
CHICAGO, June 28—With the vote of the railway shopmen overwhelmingly opposed to acceptance of a wage reduction from 85 to 77 cents an hour as ordered by the U. S. Railway Labor Board, railway circles became alarmed that the nation might be confronted with a serious railway crisis within a fortnight. The shop crafts employees voted 48,000 in favor of acceptance of the wage slash with 385,000 opposed to it.

Unofficial reports of the trend of the vote in the four railway brotherhoods indicated the wage slash, amounting generally to 12 per cent and effective July 1, was not popular and that the brotherhood chiefs might be asked to call a strike. It is understood the brotherhood chiefs themselves are against a strike.

Financially, it is pointed out, the railway men are scarcely in readiness for a strike. A strike benefit funds of some $20,000,000 has been accumulated during the last three years by the men, but with 1,200,000 men drawing only a weekly benefit of $10 from it, the war fund would last only a couple of weeks.

A new development in the situation concerns the possible abrogation of the national working agreement which was to be effective next Friday, under the U. S. Railway Board's direction. Many of the railroads will be unable to reach agreements with employees by July 1 on rules submitted for the national code.

The vote of the shopmen actually affects about 600,000 railway workers or about half of those employed by all railway systems in the country. The remainder of the men—the clerks, switchmen, engineers, conductors and trainmen—have left final action regarding a strike to a committee of their officers and various chairmen of divisions. They will meet here next Friday to canvass the situation.

It is pointed out that even should the railway workers general committee recommend of accepting the wage cut, a shop craft employee's vote against it scarcely can be ignored. The employees as a whole have agreed to abide by a majority action and the shopmen represent half, or more, of the total railway men.

Labor officials are declared to be doing all they can to prevent a nationwide railway walkout. They fear the disastrous effect it would have upon the country.

Bucks Lodge Has Initiation Meeting

Local Elks Receive Dozen Candidates Into Fraternal Brotherhood

HAVE SOCIAL SESSION

Last night at a special meeting of Bucks Lodge, No. 970, B. P. O. Elks a dozen new members were initiated into the mysteries of Elksdom. There was a large attendance, the antlered herd being out in force.

After the initiation ceremonies, there was an entertainment in the social session hall, at which capable talent from Philadelphia appeared.

There were a number of visiting Elks from nearby towns and cities. The Elks quartette sang several selections last night during the initiatory work and acquitted itself in its usual commendable fashion.

At the conclusion of the entertainment in the social session hall, all adjourned to the rathskeller, where an appetizing luncheon was served and much enjoyed. The festivities lasted until midnight.

Elks Will Embark On Local Sport Program

Plans were inaugurated last night which it is anticipated will result in furnishing Bristol with athletic activities within the next few months.

At a special meeting of Bucks Lodge, No. 970 B. P. O. Elks, a committee was named to form an athletic association. Mr. A. Willis Sheppard is the chairman of the committee and will proceed at once to organize the members in an endeavor to put over an athletic program of merit in Bristol.

It is now proposed to put a ball team in the field which will be worthy of the town's support and to otherwise boom every local sporting feature of Bristol.

In the fall it is possible that a basketball team will be formed and other activities of an athletic nature taken up. The plans are now rather vague, but the venture starts off with the fullest interest and enthusiasm of the Bristol lodge.

All of the proceeds derived from the sporting events will go toward the Elks' Charity Fund, which is devoted to aiding the poor and needy of Bristol. It is not to be a venture aiming for financial return to the lodge.

The tenth annual sessions of the Hazleton Chautauqua are being held in that borough this week.

LATE NEWS

By International News Service.

Jersey City, June 28—The opening gun in the fight to stop the Dempsey-Carpenter fight was fired here shortly before noon today when Robert Watson, President of International Reform Bureau, accompanied by counsel and five local clergymen obtained a writ compelling Tex Richards and other fight promoters to show cause why an injunction restraining the fight should not be issued. None of the fight promoters or counsels were present. An early ruling is expected.

Washington, June 28—Charles E. Dawes, new director of budget, went into the Cabinet meeting today and told the president and members of the cabinet that if they wanted him to get the budget working within the brief time of 30 days that he would have to be given latitude and lots of it. "It is impossible to get the budget working efficiently in 30 days or 30 weeks," he said, unless the departmental heads are willing to concede me certain concessions.

Women Asked To Sew Layettes For European Babies

Red Cross Branch Appeals For Unborn of War-Rent Countries

TO TAKE WORK HOME

Speakers At Meeting Sketch Need of Help From America

An appeal was made at the meeting of the Red Cross last night for persons willing to make little garments for babies. These garments are to be sent to the small allied countries of Europe.

No money is required of those offering their services—just a willingness to devote a few hours to sewing, in order that the 65,000 infants who are expected to be born in these countries this Summer may have sufficient clothing to cover them.

The appeal came to the local chapter from the head offices of the South-eastern Chapter of the Red Cross, which has established depots in the various war-ridden sections where the entire population is destitute.

All of the material for these layettes is furnished free by the Red Cross. They are sent to Bristol all ready cut out, and all that is necessary is to sew them together. Bristol's quota of the layettes is forty.

After listening to the appeal last night the small attendance at the meeting decided not to have group sewing but to request people of Bristol to each take at least one of these garments and sew it together at home. The Red Cross is confident that the women of Bristol, who are noted for their generosity and their sympathetic natures, will devote at least one day a week to this charitable work. Those willing to do it are asked to either call upon Miss Louise Swain 619 Radcliffe street, or else advise her of their willingness by mail or telephone. The cut-outs will thereupon be provided.

When it is considered that there are 65,000 babies expected to be born in these small European countries and that the expectant mothers have nothing with which to cloth the little newcomers, and no money with which to purchase clothing, the need for America's charity can well be appreciated.

Another subject that came up for consideration at the meeting last night was ways and means for carrying on local relief work. The Red Cross now is the only organized relief agency in town and the demands on it are increasing daily. The finances are depleted and a serious condition faces the active members in the organization.

Courier Appeals Bring Donations To Charities

Appeals for money recently published in the Courier have brought forth donations totaling $35. The Nursing Fund of the Red Cross today acknowledges receipt of donations amounting to $20 and the Courier today received $15 which is to be turned over to the Harriman Hospital fund.

This morning the Rev. Mr. Fells, pastor of Second Baptist Church, left $20 at the Courier office. He said that $5 of this amount was to be given to the Red Cross and $15 to the Harriman Hospital. The treasurers of these respective organizations have been notified of the donations and the money will be forwarded at once.

The Presbyterian Church has sent $10 to the Nursing Fund of the Red Cross and $5 has also been given to this worthy charity by Dr. J. Fred Wagner.

Want To Live To 150? Just Determine To

By International News Service.
ATLANTIC CITY, June 28—Psychology and not medicine is the secret of longevity, according to Dr. A. H. Warner, of New York. He addressed the sessions of the Allied Medical Associations of America.

Because the Bible says that a life shall be three score years and ten, the people expect to die when they reach that age," he asserted. "It's all wrong. They have just hypnotized themselves into belief because it's in the Bible."

"Given a sound constitution and a clean record, there is no reason why a man or woman should not reach 150 years. I'm seventy-two now, and I intend to live to a hundred. If life still looks good to me at that age, I think I shall continue right on the job for another half century. It's simply a matter of psychology and good living."

Storm Seemed To Vent Its Stored-Up Energy In Doing Much Damage in Borough

Legion Proud To Present "Georges"

Eager for Thursday's Benefit And Carpenter's Film Appearance

TICKETS SELL VERY FAST

Tickets for the benefit to be held in the Forrest theatre on Thursday night under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 362, American Legion are selling rapidly. The program has all been arranged and the local talent which is to appear in vaudeville is sure to be a big attraction.

The money derived from the benefit is to be used toward a fund to purchase a home for the Legion members.

The feature picture is to be "The Wonder Man."

Why Georges Carpentier, idol of France and champion of Europe, has been called "The Gentleman of the Ring" is explained in convincing fashion in "The Wonder Man," the Robertson-Cole production which will be shown at the Forrest Theatre Thursday evening, June 30.

The picture, a remarkable one in many respects, is particularly noteworthy because of the fact that it is shown for the first time in the history of the screen, a pugilist who is as capable an actor as he is a fighter.

In the role of gentleman, of a fighter and of a daring exponent of right, Carpentier displays talent worthy of a screen artist of the first magnitude.

In view of the fact that the fist contest for the world's heavyweight championship will occur two days later, the opportunity of seeing the French challenger afforded Bristolians is most timely. The selection of this picture for the Legion benefit is also most appropriate, because Georges Carpentier is a veteran of the late war, and is, in fact, a decorated hero of that conflict and therefore a "buddy" of our boys who took part in the "Big Scrap."

Slaying of Archduke Took Place 7 Years Ago

Seven years ago today, June 28, 1914, Archduke Francis Ferdinand was assassinated with his morganatic wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg. The shots which killed the Archduke and his consort while visiting Sarajevo, Bosnia, on a tour of inspection, followed an unsuccessful attempt on their lives by means of a bomb.

The assassination furnished the spark which started the conflagration that enveloped Europe in the great war. Ultimately America became involved, and the nations battled on European fields until the end came with the downfall of the German Empire and the Austro-Hungarian dynasty, and the changing of the map of Europe.

British Said To Have Sent Note To Japan

LONDON, June 28—The London Daily Express printed a report that the British government has sent a message to Japan proposing that the Anglo-Japan alliance remain in force for three months after July while the imperial conference is discussing the advisability of its renewal.

Charged with stealing $50 from the room of a boarder at his home, 9-year old Russel Fisher, of York was turned over to the York County Court probation officer.

Arms Reduction Asked Japan By National Body

TOKIO, June 28—The National Chamber of Commerce has adopted a resolution declaring: "The League of Nations now is established and armament restriction is important."

"Among the Powers, Japan, which always has loved justice, humanity and peace," the resolution set forth, "should reach a proper agreement with the Powers regarding disarmament and should employ every energy for the promotion of industry by safeguarding international peace. This is the urgent need of Japan at this moment."

Strong arguments, urging Japan to take the initiative in proposing a disarmament agreement with the United States and Great Britain, were made by widely known speakers. It was also urged the Government reduce appropriations devoted to preparations for war "which are arousing the suspi-

Intensity Displayed Made Delayed Arrival less Welcome to Countryside

CROPS AND TREES HURT

Hailstones, Water Deluge and Electrical Disturbance Did Much Damage

Bristol was drenched yesterday with a storm which rivaled many of the heaviest which have been experienced in this section in recent years. There were several storms, in fact, the first being the most intense.

They followed a hot day, during which the sun shone with all of its intensity. The first storm broke about 4:45 being preceded by a hurricane-like wind that did much damage to trees and vegetation. During the storm, there was a heavy fall of hail in the borough. In some of the outlying sections, however, no hail fell.

The high wind uprooted trees and tore limbs loose. The damage in this section, though, was not excessive.

A severe electrical disturbance accompanied the storm. The lightning played pranks and thunder rocked the earth. Sewers and culverts were blocked and water flooded the lowlands.

The local telephone service was hard hit. There were 40 lines and 195 stations in the borough out of working order, after the lightning got through with them. Telephone communication with the suburbs today is in bad shape, but the linemen are working like Trojans to restore the service.

A stately popular tree at Jefferson avenue and Wood street was torn up by the roots and fell across Jefferson avenue. Its trunk blocked traffic and broke down an iron fence on the opposite side of the street. The tree was in front of the residence of Miss Mary Brady. When it fell it carried telephone, electric light and fire alarm wires with it.

Part of a tree on Cedar street, between Washington and Dorrance fell and so did one on Dorrance street in front of the Chinese Laundry. Limbs were torn loose from many trees and littered the sidewalks.

Electric current for both the lighting and power circuits were shut off for a time, but the service was soon restored and only slight inconvenience was experienced in this respect. Trolley cars were halted during the height of the storm, but soon resumed their journeys.

Th hail broke some panes of glass in the greenhouse of Mrs. Emma DeWitt, Pond street and some in the houses of Jacob C. Schmidt, Otter street. However, the hail was not heavy enough to do any severe damage.

The wind ripped out the 40-foot porch at the club house of the Anchor Yacht Club, Pine Grove. The wind got under the front of the porch and moved it away from the building about two feet and then let it settle back against the building, smashing in the front. The rocking chairs on the veranda are buried beneath the debris. The "rocking chair fleet" is hard hit.

The traveling crane at the Merchant Shipyard did several acrobatic stunts, according to those who were close by at the time. The crane was standing on the eastern end of the track along the fitting-out dock. The wind started the big apparatus down the track toward the Anchor Yacht Club, where it hit the bumper at the ends of the rails and rebounded back up the track and then down again, where it swung over.

HELPING LITTLE SUFFERERS

Many a mother's heart aches as she looks upon her babe and knows that it is in pain or discomfort while she is unable to administer relief because the little one cannot describe its suffering. If she only knew where its trouble lay; if only baby could tell her something about the pain he or she is suffering.

Especially in hot weather are mothers and babies so wrought with anxiety and pain. Hot weather inflicts most of its hardships on the very young and the very old, with possibly the greatest amount of suffering being endured by the very young.

Summer is a serious time for babies. Many of them do not survive it, and the mother is always grateful to Providence when her young baby survives its second Summer. The baby born in Summer seems to be better equipped for withstanding the decimating hot weather.

Infant mortality has always been very high in Bristol in hot weather, especially in our foreign sections. The foreign-born mothers, probably used to a different climatic effect on babies, do not seem to be able to give their babies the proper care in this climate.

The killing effect of the heat is also great among babies of American born parents. Motherhood is a calling for which little preparation is given, or secured, and mothers therefore have many problems in the care of their offspring with which they are entirely unprepared to cope.

The effort the Health Center will make tomorrow afternoon to educate mothers in the care of their babies in hot weather should appeal to all classes of mothers,—and should do much to lessen the infant mortality of our town.

Mothers who are able to provide the best of care for their babies are often confronted with occasions when they are in utter quandary to know what is ailing baby and what to do until the doctor arrives.

Physicians and nurses know how to interpret the incoherent utterances and actions of sick and weather-suffering infants and can tell mothers how to interpret them—and what to do to relieve the babies. They can also tell mothers how to prepare babies to withstand the heat and how, generally, to care for them in hot weather.

Physicians and nurses identified with the Health center are going to do this tomorrow afternoon, at the Community House.

All women who have babies of their own to care for or are interested in seeing babies so cared for that they will not suffer and perhaps die should attend the meeting, so that they may not only help themselves, but help others in the care of babies in hot weather.

THE PROFIT IN LOCAL SALES

The pride some of our townspeople take in exhibiting purchases made in large retail establishments in Philadelphia and New York, the hallmarks of well known merchants or stores, makes us sometimes wonder if they have much pride in their home town and in its business prestige.

Our wonder is whether they ever think of the advantage Bristol derives from every purchase made in its shops. Do they realize that each purchase they make in Bristol is of benefit to the merchant from whom it is made, to the people employed by that merchant and to Bristol as a community?

A suit of clothes furnishes an illustration. Out of the money that a suit of clothes represents, assume that two-thirds may be sent away to the manufacturer to pay his cost of production and profit. The rest is retained by the dealer who uses it to pay for his help, his rent, his taxes, all the minor costs of his business and his own personal profit.

Therefore, when a suit costing $40, is bought in Bristol, $27 of that amount may be sent off to some manufacturer, while perhaps as much as $13 will be retained in Bristol, to pay the dealer's costs.

If the $40 suit is bought in Bristol, the $13 helps build up the community, to pay the taxes, the wages of working people and other charges, and thus to help on the business of Bristol.

The person who is in any way interested in the progress of Bristol gets this secondary advantage for his money when he buys in Bristol. If he sends off somewhere else or goes to some other city to buy goods he requires, he is helping to build up some other place and gets no offsetting advantage.

The man who spends his money in Bristol gets double value for it.

CONDEMNING EXTRAVAGANCE

Miss Lolita Armour, daughter of the millionaire packer, had a much simpler wedding the other day than many girls who have a hundred times less money. She condemned the extravagance manifested by many brides, and said that her wedding trousseau was made of "left overs".

This young woman is entitled to great credit and if wealthy women generally would take that attitude, it might be possible to make reckless use of money unpopular.

A great deal of modern expenditure is incited, not by desire to have this or that thing that is bought at some extravagant price, but to make a show of ability to spend without limit. Meanwhile many wealthy people do not share that desire, and live as simply as those of moderate means. They help establish the principle that extravagance is coarse and vulgar and contrary to the interest of the community. Some of the new rich folks, by the way they sling money around, appear much like a greedy boy who does not know how to eat at the dinner table.

THE VALUE OF PATRIOTISM

When the Fourth of July orator talks about patriotism, the pacifists and socialists frequently say this is an old fashioned idea and that it must give way to internationalism and love of humanity everywhere.

The human mind however, is so constituted that it needs more definite and nearby objects to arouse its better sentiments. You can persuade a man to make sacrifices by showing him what his country has done for him. In loyal response to the noble deeds of his forefathers, he can be incited to give his effort or his life to the common cause.

Patriotism is the mother of many virtues. When you get a good patriot, you find a man who takes broad views of life, who is willing to sacrifice for the common good. His spirit of co-operation is so developed, that he will usually do more for humanity the world over than a man who has nursed the misty dreams of internationalism. Let us do our utmost to make sure that every young person brought up in Bristol goes out into life a good patriot.

You can't claim that popular education is a success in this country, when 10 per cent of the men and 75 per cent of the women know nothing about baseball.

The dull scholar may make a fine showing graduation day by her swell clothes, but she is not likely to be able to work it at the office that way for a rise in salary.

Common method of teaching English to foreigners, is to have the foreman swear at them freely.

A MAN FOR THE AGES
A STORY OF THE BUILDERS OF DEMOCRACY
BY IRVING BACHELLER
COPYRIGHT IRVING BACHELLER

In a letter to her brother, dated January 4th, 1832, Sarah writes: "We have been longing for news from home, but not a word has come from you. It don't seem as if we could stand it unless we hear from you or some of the folks once in a while. We are not dead just because we are a thousand miles away. We want to hear from you. Please write and let us know how father and mother are and all the news. We have all been sick with the fever and ague. It is a beautiful country and the soil is very rich, but there is some sickness. Samson and I were both sick at the same time. I never knew Samson to give up before. He couldn't go on, his head ached so. Little Joe helped me get the fire started and brought some water and waited on us. Harry Needles had gone away to Springfield for Mr. Offut with a drove of hogs. Two other boys are with him. He is going to buy a new suit. He is a very proud boy. Joe and Betsy got back with the doctor at nine. That night Abe Lincoln came and sat up with us and gave us our medicine and kept the fire going. It was comical to see him lying beside Joe in his trundle bed, with his long legs sticking over the end of it and his feet standing on the floor about a yard from the bed. He was spread all over the place. He talked about religion and his views would shock most of our friends in the East. He doesn't believe in the kind of Heaven that the ministers talk about or any eternal hell. He says that nobody knows anything about the hereafter, except that God is a kind and forgiving father and that all men are His children. He says that we can only serve God by serving each other. He seems to think that every man, good or bad, black or white, rich or poor, is his brother. He thinks that Henry Clay, next to Daniel Webster, is the greatest man in the country. He is studying hard. Expects to go out and make speeches for Clay next summer. He is quite severe in his talk against General Jackson. He and Samson agree in politics and religion. They are a good deal alike. He is very fond of Samson and Harry—calls them his partners. We love this big awkward giant. His feet are set in the straight way and we think that he is going to make his mark in the world.

"You said you would come out next spring to look about. Please don't disappoint us. I think it would almost break my heart. I am counting the days. Don't be afraid of fever and ague. Sappington's pills cure it in three or four days. I would take the steamboat at Pittsburg, the roads in Ohio and Indiana are so bad. You can get a steamer up the Illinois river at Alton and get off at Beardstown and drive across country. If we knew when you were coming Samson or Abe would meet you. Give our love to all the folks and friends.

"Yours affectionately,
"Sarah and Samson."

It had been a cold winter and not easy to keep comfortable in the little house. In the worst weather Samson had used to get up at night to keep the fire going. Late in January a wind from the southeast melted the snow and warmed the air of the midlands so that, for a week or so, it seemed as if spring were come. One night of this week Sambo awoke the family with his barking. A strong wind was rushing across the plains and roaring over the cabin and walling in its chimney. Suddenly there was a rap on its door. When Samson opened it he saw in the moonlight a young colored man and woman standing near the doorstep.

"Is dis Mistah Traylor?" the young man asked.

"It is," said Samson. "What can I do for you?"

"Mas'r, de good Lord done fetched us here to ask you fo' help," said the negro. "We be nigh wone out with cold an' hungah, suh, 'deed we be."

Samson asked them in and put wood on the fire, and Sarah got up and made some hot tea and brought food from the cupboard and gave it to the strangers, who sat shivering in the firelight.

They were a good-looking pair, the young woman being almost white. They were man and wife. The latter stopped eating and moaned and shook with emotion as her husband told their story. Their master had died the year before and they had been brought to St. Louis to be sold in the slave market. There they had escaped by night and gone to the house of an old friend of their former owner who lived north of the city on the river shore. He had taken pity on them and brought them across the Mississippi and started them on the north road with a letter to Elijah Lovejoy of Alton and a supply of food. Since then they had been hiding days in the swamps and thickets and had traveled by night. Mr. Lovejoy had sent them to Erastus Wright of Springfield, and Mr. Wright had given them the name of Samson Traylor and the location of his cabin. From there they were bound for the house of John Pansley, in Hopedale, Taxesell county.

Lovejoy had asked them to keep the letter with which they had begun their travels. The letter stated that their late master had often expressed his purpose of leaving them their freedom when he should pass away. He had left no will and since his death the two had fallen into the hands of his nephew, a despotic, violent young drunkard of the name of Biggs.

Samson was so moved by their story that he hitched up his horses and put some hay in the wagon box and made off with the fugitives up the road to the north in the night. When daylight came he covered them with hay. About eight o'clock he came to a frame house and barn, the latter being of unusual size for that time and country. Above the door of the barn was a board which bore the stenciled legend: "John Pansley, Orwell Farm."

As Samson drew near the house he observed a man working on the roof of a woodshed. Something familiar in his look held the eye of the New Salem man. In half a moment he recognized the face of Henry Brimstead. It was now a cheerful face. Brimstead came down from the ladder and they shook hands.

OBSERVATIONS

It may help some of our Bristol people to remember these hot days that more people die of extreme heat than of extreme cold.

A business can always stop advertising provided it is also willing to stop selling.

Most people refuse to keep cash accounts, as they feel they get no satisfaction in knowing how they wasted their money.

Reported the government expects to get $1,000,000,000 out of the war profiteers, which would be $50.00 for each family in the country. Some of us would accept 50 cents cash for our share of the claim.

Claimed there is too much laxity in Government work, others feel however there is too much taxity.

The way people drive automobiles coming home after a Sunday excursion suggests that some folks must be offering something stronger than lemonade along the road.

In honor of their fiftieth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Bralley of Eden, entertained a number of relatives and friends at dinner.

What's Your Time Worth?

WHEN you go to buy a pair of boots, a can of peas or a kitchen cabinet, do you know exactly what you want—or do you "shop around" and take pot luck?

You can save many an hour's time—and many a good hard dollar—by knowing beforehand what you want, where to get it, and approximately how much it will cost.

You can always know this much before you enter a store.

If it's clothing, you know how well it should wear and what the style should be. If it's a musical instrument, you know what to expect in tone and workmanship. If it's a carpet sweeper, you know what kind of service it should give.

THEATRES

New Colonial Theatre

Frances Marion, celebrated scenario writer is now Mary Pickford's director. The first picture, "The Love Light," released by United Artists Corporation, will be shown for the last time tonight at the New Colonial Theatre. Miss Marion has signed a long term contract with Miss Pickford to direct her in her forthcoming productions. The present photoplay is an original story by Miss Marion.

Miss Marion will continue her activities as a scenario writer also. Since her wonderful success with Miss Pickford's photoplay, "The Foundling," which was adapted from Miss Marion's story, this clever young woman has risen to the very top of scenario writers in the motion picture business. She has been responsible for nearly a dozen of Miss Pickford's most successful stories and in addition has had the opportunity of writing photoplays for Clara Kimball Young, Sessue Hayakawa, Alice Brady, Billie Burke and the late Olive Thomas.

She also did "The World and His Wife," "The City of Dim Faces," "The Temple of Dust," "The Land of Promise," "Misleading Lady," and her splendid recent success "Humoresque." In "The Love Light," Miss Pickford has surrounded herself with a splendid cast, the majority of the principal players having been selected by Miss Pickford and Miss Marion, her director, while in Europe, where many of the properties were also secured.

The production is lavish in its settings and the wonderful photography is credited to Charles Rosher who has photographed most of Miss Pickford's recent pictures. Stephen Gooson, noted art director, is responsible for the reproduction of the Italian village and beautiful interiors.

Forrest Theatre

One of the great pictures of the day Vitagraph's special production, "The Heart of Maryland," produced by Tom Terriss, with Catherine Calvert in the title role, will be the attraction at the Forrest tonight and Wednesday. This is a production of David Belasco's famous play which made such a phenomenal success.

The film has many advantages over the stage production in that scenes have been visualized, which in the play only were hinted at. Characters such as Abraham Lincoln and General Lee are shown with such perfect make up that the spectator feels certain he is looking at the men themselves. In-

LOCAL PEOPLE LIKE TABLETS BETTER THAN YEAST

Tablets Contain Proper Dose; Easy To Take—Results Quick; Druggists Recommend.

CHEMISTS CONCENTRATE DOSE INTO TINY TABLET

Many people are wisely eating Spinach, drinking milk and fruit juices every day to get the Vitamins so vital to health. Others are eating yeast—but now comes a tiny tablet which is easy to take. You get sixty of these tiny tablets in a bottle at any drug store. These "Phos-Pho Vitamine" Tablets contain a proper dose in highly concentrated form, of both Water and Fat Soluble Vitamins, etc. (See formula on bottle).

For those not familiar with Vitamins, it can be said that Vitamins mean the difference between sickness and health. Vitamins are in many foods, but most of us do not get enough because we cannot scientifically balance our diet. In the Army and Navy boys grow fat, rosy, clear-skinned and vigorous in just a few weeks. Soon as they left the army and its scientifically balanced Vitamine diet, and started choosing their own foods, they grew weak, thin and pale. People in a half-sick, pale thin, undernourished condition report that as soon as they had taken these Phos-Pho Vitamine tablets three or four weeks they gained weight, strength, color, freedom from boils, pimples, carbuncles, etc., and a new buoyancy and vigor.

Magazines, medical journals, hospitals, doctors and chemists everywhere are recommending more Vitamins. Here is a powerful, easy to take economical tablet which produces results quick. Visit the nearest drug store and procure a bottle of Phos-Pho Vitamine Tablets, or write and inclose $1, plus 4c war tax, to the Irving Laboratory, Wheeling, W. Va., for a bottle prepaid. —Advertisement.

Corbett Finds
Carpentier Working

French Champion Prefers to Work in Privacy Rather Than Before Public

HE IS IN EARNEST

By JAMES J. CORBETT
Former Heavyweight Champion of the World
(Written Expressly for the I. N. S.)
(Copyright 1921 by I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, June 28—I dropped in on Georges Carpentier about 8 o'clock the other evening. I expected to find the challenger sitting on the veranda or the lawn. He was not in sight.

Presently he came up to the house from the big barn in which he does his gymnasium work. He was flushed and perspiring.

"Ah, Georges," I remarked, "you are putting in some good ticks when no one is around? You are working as you expect to work when you get into the ring with Dempsey next Saturday?"

Carpentier laughed, winked and said pleasantly: "You are right, Mr. Corbett, I have just been going through some work that I consider very important. I didn't get an opportunity to do it earlier in the day. There were too many around."

"You see, I am so in earnest about this fight. I am really training quite hard. To win means everything to me more by far than the money, though of course that is a great incentive. But to be champion of the world! That has been my dream for years and I will leave nothing undone to bring about its realization."

Believe me, Georges is serious. He has reasoned out his chances from every conceivable angle and the result he obtained has convinced him that they are good.

While he told me nothing of his plans for the Dempsey fight, I imagine that when he gets into the ring it will be with the intention of letting Dempsey force things and attempting to box him at long range. Georges believes he can put across a winning punch once the opening comes and he will be content to wait for it. He very probably figures also that Dempsey may tire himself out and this is a point well worth considering.

In the Willard fight at Toledo Dempsey fought himself out in the first round. He gave Willard everything he had and won his fight. No boxer ever expended more energy in one round than did Jack. But against Carpentier this sort of campaign may be unsuccessful for Georges is quick of foot as he is of hand and Dempsey will not find him as easy to hit.

Dempsey has one glaring fault as I see it. And that is his failure to relax. He stands there ready to hit, muscles set and firm. He did it at Toledo when Willard was weaving around like a drunken man and unable to harm him. He simply doesn't know the meaning of relaxation and in his case, with those tremendously heavy arms, failure to relax is bound to result in tiring out of the muscles.

If Carpentier can carry him along, therefore, he will conserve his strength while Dempsey expends his, for the Frenchman has discovered the secret of relaxing. He can go the distance the better for it too.

Effective July 1, the cost of uniforms for Lehigh Valley trainmen will be reduced 10 per cent.

Dempsey Follows Same
Plan As Carpentier

By SID MERCER
Written for I. N. S.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 28—Evading successfully even the sleuth hounds of the press who were thrown off the scene by the announcement that the champion had left camp for a long automobile ride, Jack Dempsey has today torn a page out of Georges Carpentier's training manual by staging a long, high speed secret workout in the old aeroplane shed at Airport.

He worked fifty five minutes in the hot, stuffy garage as the guards repelled all efforts to cash the gate. Besides his sparring partners and handlers 8 persons saw him work. They were Judge E. C. Bonniwell, his wife and three sons of Philadelphia, Bat Nelson and two scribes who got into the grounds before Dempsey awoke from an early afternoon nap and suddenly decided to work out, disregarding Jack Kearns' instructions before he left for New York. Kearns left orders that Dempsey was to loaf all day.

Likely To Pass Bill
WASHINGTON, June 28—Prospects that Congress will pass the Willis-Campbell anti-beer bill within a week and that it may become a law within that period today caused the Treasury Department to again hold up the new beer regulations, which are awaiting the signature of Revenue Commissioner Blair.

Leaders in the House informed the Treasury that the way is now clearer for prompt action by Congress to outlaw beer as a medicine. Apparently the treasury is convinced that it is only a question of days before beer will be banned.

The name of Goodrich on a tire means just one thing—quality. And that quality is always the highest that can be produced.
Each tire is specially designed for the service it must deliver. Goodrich Fabrics, in the popular sizes, have established themselves as unusual values from the standpoint of real economy. Silvertown Cords in their class have always held first place in the esteem of motorists, not only because of their symmetrical perfection of finish, but furthermore, by reason of their long life, complete dependability and satisfactory performance.
